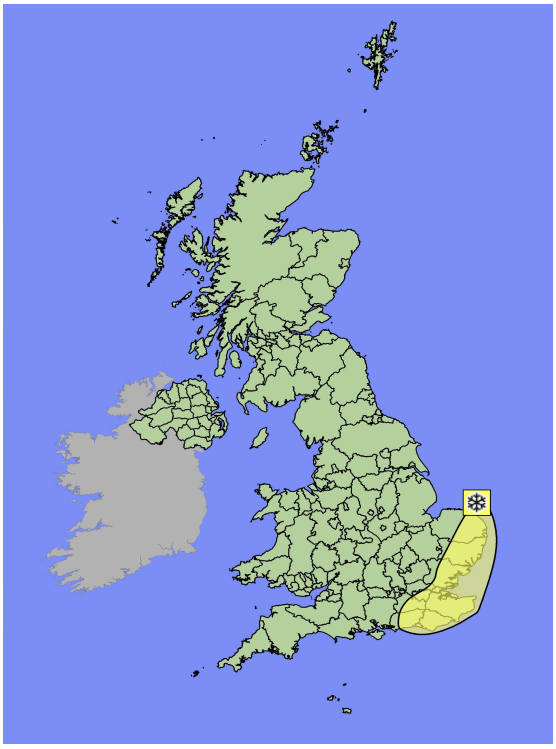
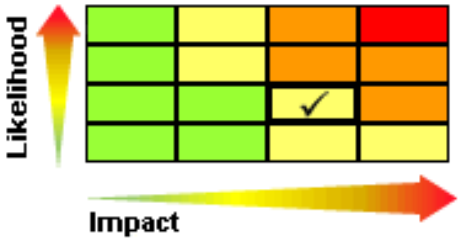
National Severe Weather Warning Service





CANCELLED

Chief Forecasters Assessment
There is low to moderate probability of more persistent and at times heavy snow affecting Sussex and Kent during the early hours of Tuesday, whilst snow showers are likely across other parts of southeast England.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Snow

Valid from 00:05 on Tue, 12th Mar 2013 until 09:00 on Tue, 12th Mar 2013

Further snow showers, giving 2-5 cm of snow in places, are expected during Monday night and early Tuesday across parts of southeast England and East Anglia. There is also a risk of more widespread snow at first across parts of Sussex and Kent. The snow will be accompanied by strong northeasterly winds, making it feel very cold and causing any lying snow to drift.

The public should be aware of the risk of disruption to travel.
